Course Description:

This forty-hour course has been developed to provide more instruction in campus safety and the use of technology. This is the fourth forty-hour class now being offered by Corbin & Associates, Inc. This new curriculum is a “hands on” approach to planning and preparation for crisis or situations that occur at the school or in the community. Attendees will be given the opportunity to continue their professional growth and obtain new skills that will help them educate everyone responsible for student safety and security on their campus.

Core Topics:

- Impact of domestic terrorism on America’s schools
- Using a team approach to managing violent student behavior
- Management of sexual offenders in schools
- Development and refinement of crisis plans and templates
- Using technology to enhance crisis preparedness and response

About The Instructors:

Instructors for this course, and all courses presented by Corbin & Associates, Inc., are recognized as leaders in the fields of law enforcement and education. The lead instructor for this course is Craig Mansanares, a School Resource Officer in Longmont, Colorado. Craig is the Past-President of the Colorado Association of School Resource Officers and is the SRO at Skyline High School. Craig is currently in his seventh year as an associate of Corbin & Associates, Inc.

Upon completion of this and any course presented by Corbin & Associates, Inc., students will continue to receive support from our staff as well as the other attendees in the course. We believe that providing this continued support is an illustration of our company’s philosophy of “Building Relationships that Last a Lifetime.”

Who Should Attend?

Any school-based law enforcement officer, campus supervisor, school peace officer, DARE officer, school administrator, teacher or parent will benefit from attending this course. Additionally, this curriculum will be of direct benefit to any program manager or supervisor. To receive maximum benefit from this course attendees should bring written crisis plans, photographs of their school and campus, and a lap-top computer.

Cost, Date, Location, & Time:

Cost of this course is $395, which includes all course materials and certificate of completion. The course will be held July 14-18, 2008 at Intrado Inc., 1601 Dry Creek Drive, Longmont, CO 80502. Class times will be from 8 A.M. until 5 P.M.
